- The image shows a collection of mobile application wireframes arranged in a grid pattern against a black background. The wireframes are white with purple accents and represent various screens of a mobile application, likely a productivity or communication tool. They are organized into several distinct vertical columns, with some columns being taller than others, suggesting different screen sizes or sections of the app.
- 1. Simplify the onboarding process
  - 2. Lessen texts/words for larger end-user grasp
  - 3. Lessen menu bar features, avoid overflow scrolling
  - 4. Simplify categorization
